Step into history with this Grove Park Colonial Revival gem, crafted in the late 1920s by L.B. Jackson, renowned for Asheville's inaugural skyscraper. Owned by several Kimberly family sisters and esteemed figures like James G. Stikeleather, a NC senator, its legacy is palpable. Constructed with Tennessee pink granite and slate roof tiles, its meticulously maintained elegance endures. With four bedrooms, a cozy wormy chestnut den, and a sunlit sunroom, every corner whispers tales of yesteryears. Enjoy vistas of Grove Park golf course and Sunset Mountain. Own a piece of Asheville's rich narrative.
